STILL ON FARM OF U. S. COMMISSIONER

'Shiners Getting Bold and Bad When They "Pull a Stunt" Like That—Worm Taken

Those Fayette county burglars who robbed the vault of the federal building at Lexington and got a lot of pistols and some whisky from the office of State Prohibition Director Sam Collins, "haven't a thing" on some enterprising Madison county gentlemen.

A big still, still warm from making a run of 'shine, was discovered on the farm of Warfield Bennett, U. S. Commissioner for this district, by Sheriff Elmer Deatherage and several deputies Tuesday. Mr. Bennett's farm is located at White Hall, five miles out on the Lexington pike. A tenant occupies the old home place, but, according to the officers, no suspicion attaches to him, as all paths to and from the still lead away from the house. Officers believe they have a clew to the operators.

Mr. Bennett was naturally as much surprised as was the raiding officers, to learn that a still was being operated right on his place—"right under his nose," it might be said, as the still was found cleverly concealed in a hollow only a few hundred yards from the house, the officers say. It was evident that the moonshiners felt very secure that their hiding place was a good one, for they had gone off and left the worm with the still, after making a run of whisky, which is not often done by experienced 'shiners. The officers brought the worm to town, after destroying the still and pouring out all the mash they could find.

This is the second still found in the Foxstown section recently, as one was found on the farm of Green Clay not long ago, and he was as much surprised as Mr. Bennett to learn what the festive 'shiners were doing on his premises. Officers think they have some mighty warm clews as to the guilty parties and arrests may be made soon.

Estill Man Threatened By Enemies in Ambush

Irvine, Ky., Apr. 5—Uncle John Griffin, of the Barnes Mountain section, is living in constant dread of being shot. His house was bombarded one night and his woods were set on fire, burning up his fences. A still was captured in that vicinity and 'shiners of the neighborhood are of the opinion that Uncle John reported them and are threatening his life. He sleeps with a shotgun in reach, but the firing is being done from ambush.

(By Associated Press)

New York, Apr. 5—Summing up today at the trial of Miss Olivia Stone, graduate nurse, who is charged with killing Ellis G. Kinkead in Brooklyn last August, Edward J. Keilly, defense counsel, charged that the "gang which rules Cincinnati," the city where Kinkead once served as corporal inane, is trying to swear away the life of his client. He asserted they drove her out of Cincinnati and are hounding her now. In dramatic fashion, Keilly challenged Kinkead's widow who sat weeping in the court room to defy him to prove she had been a woman of the underworld and dared anyone to take the stand and say his client, "this good southern girl," had lied. Mrs. Kinkead so lost her composure that she had to leave the room for a moment.

REFUSE TO RAISE COUNTY SCHOOL TAX

Fiscal Court Votes Unanimously Against Allowing Sum Asked By County Board

Following expressions from County Judge John D. Goodloe and other members of the Fiscal Court that the people are being taxed to death and they will resist every effort to increase taxes upon them while they are holding office, the Fiscal Court at its regular monthly meeting Wednesday refused to increase the tax rate for county schools from 40c to 45c on the $100 of property as requested by the County Board of Education.

A budget was submitted by the County Board in which it was set out that additional school time and needed building necessitated more money. The Fiscal Court, by unanimous vote however, refused to increase the school tax. This tax applies to the country sections of the county outside of the graded school districts of Richmond and Berea.

The county tax levy was again placed at 50 cents on the $100 for county purposes, the same figure as last year. This 50 cents is divided up as follows:

To meet interest on turnpike and bridge bonds, .02.

General expense and salary fund, .23.

Turnpike and bridge fund, .25.

The poll tax was fixed at $1.50 as usual.

The Fiscal Court was in session two days, Tuesday and Wednesday, with much business before it. The bid of the State Bank & Trust Company at par for the $35,000 bond issue to build the Lexington pike, was accepted. These bonds pay 5 per cent interest.

The salary of guards in charge of prisoners working roads was increased from $2 to $2.50 per day.

Frank Lambert was allowed $10 a month for the care of Etta English upon recommendation of the Red Cross.

County physicians were re-elected at the same salaries, as follows:

He did not, however, identify Watts as one of the two men who did the shooting which resulted in the death of Albert Roberts, deputy jailer, and Miss Maggie Allen, the jailer's daughter, and the serious wounding of Mrs. Oscar Allen, his daughter-in-law.

Morrow Pardons Man Who Forgot Election Bet

County officers and a bank president joined in the petition for clemency.

Sheriff Elmer Deatherage, who has done a man's part in breaking up moonshining in Madison, thinks that the drastic new law passed by the last legislature, is going to help a lot, too, if it is sustained by the Court of Appeals. A provision providing for the seizure of a man's farm on which a still may be found, and other penalties almost as severe, will tend mightily toward making one careful about such a costly vocation. The Sheriff says he saw 25 sites of former stills the other day in one section of this county. Looks mighty like the 'shiner has seen the handwriting on the wall.

Explaining the cause of the failure of Rankin Bros., big livestock farmers of Garrard and Boyle counties, the Danville Advocate says that the financial misfortune of Mr. Rankin and his sons is a sequence of the war time high land prices. Their land in Garrard county was sold at about $295 per acre and Boyle county lands were purchased at about $285 per acre of Col. Robt. G. Evans, and some eighty thousand dollars paid down in cash. The deals were dependent each on the other and when the purchaser from the Rankin could not meet his notes, and with scarcity of money and depleted markets the Messrs. Rankin could not meet their purchase notes on the Boyle lands. There would have been no failure could Rankin's have collected their land notes which were the basis of their purchase of other lands in Boyle county.

The E-town News expresses the opinion that Pennyville farmers are more conservative in their transactions than up here in the Blue Grass regions. It cites the Bagby and Rankin failures as evidence of its contention. However, these were only two unfortunate cases that would be likely to occur any where and any time. We believe if statistics could be consulted it would be found that there is no real basis for the argument that Blue Grass farmers were more venturesome than their brothers of the Pennyville and Purchase during the inflated times following the war. We recall that there was apparently as much land sold at fabulous prices along in 1919 and 1920 around Hardin county as up in this end of the state. Kentucky farmers and citizens generally are pretty much alike in their characteristics. Everyone seemed willing to take a chance in those days and some were unlucky enough to lose, that's all.

Herbs Used in Medicines - A Manchester, England, paper urges the renewed cultivation of old-fashioned medicinal herbs in English gardens. In the United States they have also gone out of fashion as a feature of the small garden; although they are imported in large quantities from Turkey, India and China, where they are grown purely for commercial purposes as their medicinal value is recognized by many leading physicians. Tons of medicinal herbs are used annually in the preparation of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most successful medicine for woman's ills. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and women afflicted with such ailments should try it.

"DEAN OF CONVICTS" JUGGED

At 93 James Bundy is sentenced to Prison for Stealing Chickens.

New York.—At the age of ninety-three James Bundy began serving a five-year prison term for stealing chickens.

Since he was forty Bundy has spent much of his time in the Eastern penitentiary in Philadelphia and in nearby county jails. His alleged offenses range from pocketbook snatching and corner lounging to burglary and attempts to kill. Upon each return to the penitentiary he is bailed by the long-term prisoners as the "Dean of Convicts."

When last released in 1910, after serving a three-year term, Bundy told the authorities that he had determined to "go straight" the rest of his life.

GILBERT WRITES

The three principal sources of domestic hemp are Kentucky, Wisconsin and California. Kentucky led in production until 1917 and since then Wisconsin has led. California has produced some hemp from time to time but has never had any suitable for domestic consumption but has exported her product. The reports are that there will be a reduction of acreage in Wisconsin this year but an increased production in California where they will attempt to produce hemp for domestic consumption.

There is no quotation at present for Kentucky rough hemp. Wisconsin hemp is quoted at 14c. Returns from buyers indicate there is no great demand for Kentucky hemp this year. The following are principal buyers of Kentucky rough hemp:

In 1921 about 3,000 acres of hemp were grown in Kentucky. It is estimated that this crop will yield about 1,000 to 1,200 tons of fibre. The drought of last season cut down the growth of the plants and this will result in somewhat less than a normal yield of fibre.

The acreage of 1920 was less than that of 1921.

The total area devoted to hemp in the United States last season was about 11,500 acres. Very little of this fibre has been marketed thus far, and there is also approximately 40 per cent of the fibre from the crop of 1920 still unsold. Before the war the average annual production of hemp in the United States was 8,000 tons.

In 1920 and 1921 the crops of jute in India were very much below the normal. The production of jute in 1921 is estimated at 1,000,000 bales of 4.000 pounds each, while the normal is 4,000,000 bales of 4.000 pounds each. As I wrote you at the beginning of this very lengthy communication, it was through research that I was also a large producer of hemp. It is nearly exhausted and that the production of the last two years has been but, of course, it is now producing less than the normal.
